NEW REGIME AT ALBANY

Governor Odell Now Steers the Ship of State.

FEATURES OF THE INAUGURATION

Brilliant Military and Civic Demonstration in Honor of the New Governor's Entrance into Office—First Reception a Social Success.

Albany, Jan. 2.—Democratic to the extreme were the ceremonies attending the inauguration of Governor Benjamin B. Odell, the state's first twentieth century governor.

Mr. Odell met the members of his staff and Major General Charles R. Roe and the members of his staff at the executive mansion at half past 9 o'clock. Governor Roosevelt was in the executive chamber at the capital at 10 o'clock and at 11 o'clock received the members of his staff for an official farewell.

The military escort formed in State street at half past 10 o'clock, under command of Major James L. Hyatt, marched of the parade. The column moved at 11:40.

More than 1,500 national guardsmen, comprising two battalions and three separate companies of infantry, and a mounted signal corps were in line in the escort column, and in addition civilians who have been the lifelong friends and neighbors of the new executive and who had come to this city to attest their friendship.

Governor Roosevelt and staff received Governor Odell and staff in the public audience chamber of the executive suit.

The new governor was warmly greeted by Governor Roosevelt. They spent several minutes in conversation until Secretary of State John T. McLean, who announced that everything was in readiness for the inaugural ceremony.

The line, headed by the two governors and composed of the military staffs, Lieutenant Governor Woodruff and the other state officers, was formed, and the executive party proceeded to the assembly chamber.

The inauguration ceremony was most impressive. The assembly chamber never presented a more beautiful appearance and never contained a larger, more representative and more enthusiastic audience. The ceremony took place on a platform erected over the speaker's desk. The platform was draped in a profusion of flags and macaron plush, trimmed with gold braid. In front of the platform, at the center, hung the coat of arms of the state in gold and colors on a background of blue silk. On either side hung the stars and stripes, and brass eagles held each a scroll with the motto "E PLURIBUS UNUM" draped from the balcony directly over the platform was a banner containing the coat of arms of the United States, and on either side were groups of flags and bunting.

The Governor's Family.

The chamber was filled to overflowing. On the platform were seated Mrs. Odell, wife of the governor; Mr. B. B. Odell, his father; Albert Odell, his son; and other members of the governor's family, the wives of the state officers and members of their families, the heads of state departments and their wives, daughters and friends.

Governor Odell, Governor Roosevelt and the other members of the executive party entered the chamber at the noon hour and were greeted with applause.

The Right Rev. William Crosswell Doane opened the ceremony with prayer. There was an enthusiastic outburst when Governor Roosevelt rose to extend formal greeting to Governor Odell. Governor Odell remained standing while Governor Roosevelt addressed him, and at the conclusion of the latter's remarks he delivered his inaugural address.

The oath of office was then administered by Secretary of State John T. McLean on a new Bible purchased for the occasion.

This concluded the ceremony, and the band played and the audience cheered.

Governor Odell's first official act was to sign the commissions of his secretary and the members of his military staff. Secretary, Hon. James G. Graham of Newburgh; adjutant general, Edward M. Hoffman of Elmhurst; military secretary, Major Harrison K. Bird of New York city, and the aids as heretofore printed.

Governor and Mrs. Odell gave a reception to the public in the afternoon from 4 to 6 at the executive mansion which proved to be one of the most brilliant and largely attended New Year's receptions ever held there.

A Pittsburg Editor Killed.

Pittsburg, Jan. 2.—J. P. Sabin, for the past seven years editor of The York, killed last night by being thrown by a street car. He was 46 years old and had been connected with German newspapers in this city many years. Mr. Sabin was leaving a car near his home to go to his office and in some way was thrown backward, breaking his back in the fall.

Crisis in Spanish Cabinet.

Madrid, Jan. 2.—It is said that the resignation of Rear Admiral Ramon, minister of marine, is imminent owing to the recent rejection by the chamber of deputies of the government's scheme for increasing the navy. The crisis in the cabinet, and an official announcement will be made today when the cabinet meets.

BOERS IN TWO COLUMNS.

Both Marching Toward Districts Nearer Cape Town.

London, Jan. 2.—The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Mail, who dwells upon the gravity of the position in Cape Colony, says:

"The Boer invaders and the Cape Colony have joined their forces. The Boers are now in two columns, one marching from the north and the other from the south, both toward the districts nearer Cape Town."

The Boers are now in two columns, one marching from the north and the other from the south, both toward the districts nearer Cape Town."

"It was felt that the only means of excluding the invaders from the rich districts in the western part of the colony was to call out the farmers. Today's telegrams promise a splendid response from the eastern part, but the western part is doubtful, not 20 per cent of the population being regarded as loyal. Hence the Boer concentration in that direction."

"Letters are arriving here detailing damage and robbery by the invaders and beseeching military assistance. Any action on the part of the colony will not abate the urgent need of large reinforcements."

A message from Colesburg, Cape Colony, says 250 Boers captured 14 men of Nesbitt's horse 50 miles southwest of Colesburg. The enemy, since increased to 800, has appeared near Weltevreden and is driving off stock.

Krugger Wants to Come Here.

Brussels, Jan. 2.—Replying to an address from the American Boer committee, Mr. Krugger expressed a desire to visit the United States, but said he must postpone the visit on account of the affection of the eyes from which he is suffering.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

S. Fred Nixon Re-elected Speaker of Assembly.

Albany, Jan. 2.—The legislature convened today at 11 o'clock. The assembly organized by electing S. Fred Nixon of Chautauque speaker and other officers as follows: Clerk, Colonel Archie E. Baxter of Chemung; sergeant-at-arms, Frank W. Johnson of Erie; principal doorkeeper, Henry W. Pollock of New York; first assistant doorkeeper, William H. Bliss of Albany; second assistant doorkeeper, Frederick A. Atkins of Livingston; stenographer, Henry C. Lammert of Kings. The senate re-elected James S. Whipple of Sullivan clerk and C. A. Holling of Sullivan sergeant-at-arms. Other officers elected were: Stenographer, A. Sackell of Chautauque; postmaster, Charles H. Wheeler of Chautauque; assistant postmaster, P. M. Hodgdon of Schoharie; auditor, Major R. Poole of New York; assistant auditors, A. D. Taylor of Rochester and George MacKenzie of New York; general committee clerks, Harry Reimer, John L. Dolig, E. F. Flood, A. S. Lloyd, F. L. Clark, F. N. Glover, W. S. Hopkins, C. R. Thompson and F. W. Blatchford; assistant doorkeepers, R. C. Theiler, R. K. Smith, Charles H. Conway, W. A. Ramage, William Norton, Joseph C. Miller and William Wright.

Cardinal's Nephew Murdered.

New Orleans, Jan. 2.—Dr. James Gibbons, one of the ambulance drivers of the Charity hospital and a nephew of Cardinal Gibbons, has died of wounds received Monday night when he was hit by a car at midnight when he was attempting to rob him. Before he could comply with the demand to hold up his hands he was shot in the groin. Dr. Gibbons pursued the men, who ran, not knowing he was wounded, but the loss of blood caused him to desist. A cousin, discovering his plight, took him to the hospital. No trace of the murderers has yet been found, although Dr. Gibbons gave a full description of them before he died.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Boston, Jan. 2.—Thirty Republican members of the senate held the usual caucus last evening at the statehouse and nominated without opposition Hon. Rufus A. Soule of New Bedford as president, Henry D. Coddige of Concord and Rev. Edmund Dowse of Sherborn as chaplain. David W. Remington, the efficient doorkeeper of the senate for many years, was then nominated as sergeant-at-arms, but he immediately declined, and in the hall which followed Major C. C. Davis, the present incumbent, through the appointment of the caucus, was nominated.

New Year Shots Started Troops.

Peking, Jan. 2.—The advent of the new year and the new century was celebrated on an elaborate scale. The discharge of numerous guns at midnight created a scene, and troops were sent to disperse whoever the city had been attacked by a mob. A. B. Baker, a British officer, and a Chinese held his reception in the morning, and Mr. Conger received in the afternoon. A review of the British troops was held in honor of Queen Victoria and Australian federation, all the nations being invited to send representatives. The French were conspicuous by their absence.

Warren F. Putnam Released.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 2.—Warren F. Putnam, formerly president of the National Granite State Bank of Exeter, who was sentenced to serve five years in state prison in 1896 by Judge Abner of the United States court, has been released, 268 days of his sentence having been deducted for good behavior. He left Concord at once for Boston to remain a few days and then go to New York. He will engage in business with friends.

COLONEL QUAY WINS OUT

His Adherents Organize Pennsylvania Legislature.

UNANIMOUS CHOICE OF CAUCUS.

Votes Represented in the Meeting Which Made Him Regular Republican Nominee for United States Senator Numbered 125.

Harrisburg, Jan. 2.—Both branches of the Pennsylvania legislature met at noon yesterday, and the future of the contest was the battle between the Quay Republic and the anti-Quay Democrats for control of the house of representatives, resulting in a victory for the Quay forces.

William T. Marshall of Allegheny was the choice of the Quay forces for speaker, while the Democrats and anti-Quay Republicans were lined up for General William H. Koontz of Somerset, anti-Quay Republican. The membership of the house is 263, there being a majority in the Sixty-fourth Philadelphia district. Of these 104 are Republicans and 49 Democrats.

Senator Snyder of Chester county was the choice of the Quay faction for president of the senate and was elected by a vote of 26 to 13 over Senator Nidder (Dem.) of Cumberland.

After passing the usual routine resolutions and appointing committees to wait on the governor and the house with the information that the senate was organized and ready for business a recess was taken.

M. S. QUAY.

In the house the proceedings began with the formal swearing in of the members, after which the roll call showed three absentees. No nominations for speaker or being in order the names of Mr. Marshall and General Koontz were presented.

As the voting progressed it was seen that the vote would be close, and it was announced as 149 for Marshall and 139 for Koontz. Four Democrats voted for Marshall.

The Joint Caucus.

Colonel Quay was the unanimous choice of the joint convention of Republican senators and members held last night in the house chamber to nominate a candidate for United States senator. The caucus was attended by 123 legislators, or four less than the number necessary to elect a choice in the joint convention of the senate and house which will be held Jan. 16. Three of those present were Messrs. Hill and Tiffany of Susquehanna county and McPherson of Adams, who absented themselves from the house caucus and voted with the Democrats in the house for General Koontz for speaker. Mr. Beaver of Juniata, who voted with the stalwarts for Mr. Marshall for speaker, was present, but did not answer to his name. It is stated that he will abide by the caucus.

On the balloting Mr. Quay received the votes of 29 senators and 33 members of the house. Before this result was announced the names of Messrs. Deland and Stewart were withdrawn, and the nomination of Mr. Quay was made unanimous, and he was thus given a total of 123 votes.

With one present and not voting, two absent on account of illness, all three of whom, it is claimed, will abide by the caucus decision, a vote of 126 for Quay on joint ballot is indicated. As the names of certain persons who had been counted in the anti-Quay column were called and they announced their vote for Mr. Quay there was a demonstration of great approval on the part of the great crowd present.

The Quay people are jubilant over the result of the caucus, as the number present exceeded their expectations, and they claim that before the vote is taken on joint ballot for speaker they will have made more than the number necessary to elect Mr. Quay himself is quoted as saying that he expected 121 votes in the caucus. The news of the result of the balloting was taken to him by his friends, and party leaders from all over the state visited him and extended their congratulations upon what they claim is a certain victory for stalwart Republicanism and party regularity.

While the caucus was in session in the house chamber a session meeting of the anti-Quay Republicans was held at their headquarters at the Commonwealth hotel. At the close of the meeting the pledge of the anti-Quayists binding themselves together to oppose Mr. Quay's re-election was made public. The pledge contains 68 names.

Entirely Hurt in Firefight.

Easton, Pa., Jan. 2.—Frank Welch of Philadelphia, who participated in a prize fight with "Freddy" Donovan at Cedar Park, across the Delaware from this city, is lying at the point of death from the effects of the beating he received. Welch collapsed in the fourth round and has not been conscious since. The doctors say he has concussion of the brain and do not think he will recover. Donovan, one of his seconds, William Casey, and one of Welch's seconds, "Kid" Stein, all of Philadelphia, were arrested and are held awaiting the outcome of Welch's injuries.

Hotel at Ashbury Park Burned.

New York, Jan. 2.—An early morning fire practically destroyed the Hotel Vendome, one of the oldest hotels at Ashbury Park. The guests who were sleeping in the hotel narrowly escaped, some of them in their nightclothes. Two firemen were injured.

KWANG SU COMPLAISANT.

Emperor of China Desires to Meet Powers' Demands.

Peking, Jan. 2.—A representative of the press yesterday had a personal interview with Li Hung Chang, who shows plainly physical evidence of his recent illness, but whose mind has not been affected by his sickness and is as vigorous as ever.

In the course of his conversation with the correspondent Earl Li said he would prefer to meet the ministers and commissioners at his house if such an arrangement were possible on account of the condition of his health, but he would not under the circumstances make suggestions.

He said also that Emperor Kwang Su was desirous of complying in all particulars with the demands of the powers. On the other hand, the emperor thought the powers should order a cessation of the frequent irritating expeditions, which he looked upon as unnecessary and as doing a deal of harm. It would be quite possible now, he said, to maintain complete order in the province with the assistance of a small number of Chinese troops, and he hoped that the powers would agree to keep at present the troops now stationed at Peking and Tientsin and along the railway.

The emperor, Li Hung Chang asserts, is willing to punish all those named by the powers by banishment to the farthest parts of the Chinese dominions, on the northwestern frontier, and their return, he declares, will be prohibited under penalty of decapitation. His majesty is anxious also to have the number of legation guards limited, and that the legationaries be specified, and he hopes the foreign armies will be recalled as early as possible in the spring.

China will endeavor, says Earl Li, by every means in her power to prove that she intends compliance with the demands contained in the note and to show her desire to make the country safe and habitable for foreigners. He believes the powers will not insist upon the total destruction of the forts.

A meeting of the foreign ministers will be held as soon as Sir Ernest Mason Satow, the British minister, who is suffering from chills and fever, shall have recovered sufficiently to be present and when a date and place for meeting the Chinese commissioners shall have been agreed upon.

Fayweather Will Suit.

New York, Jan. 2.—It is expected that one of the most important lawsuits of the new century, involving a large sum of money, valuable property rights in this city and bringing into question again, and it is hoped finally the legality of the will of Daniel Y. Fayweather, will be brought up for trial today in the United States circuit court, before Judge LaCombe and a jury, and that for the first time the question of the competency of the will will be brought before a jury. The suit is in the name of Mrs. Emma S. Fayweather, a niece of Mr. Fayweather, and is in the nature of an action in ejectment in respect to the property in this city which formerly belonged to the Fayweather estate. Mr. Fayweather died in 1890, leaving a fortune estimated at $1,000,000. He left a residence and an annuity of $15,000 to his widow, who survived him two years, and about $2,000,000 in specific bequests and $2,200,000 to 20 colleges and five hospitals.

New Year's in Manila.

Manila, Jan. 2.—If President McKinley's New Year reception was greater than that of General MacArthur, it was not the fault of the people of Manila. This reception was the first official social function at which the Americans and Filipinos have mingled in a social way. For three hours a stream of vehicles wound through the grounds of the presidential residence and discharged the callers, official and civilian, most of them in uniform, who thronged to the residence of the governor. The American flag, branches of pine flowers and vines predominated in the decorations throughout the mansion. Admiral Hemy received the callers by the side of General MacArthur, and the wives of several generals assisted.

Situation in Delaware.

Dover, Del., Jan. 2.—The Delaware legislature organized after the Addicks and anti-Addicks Republicans held a conference over a division of the officers of the senate and house of representatives. Both factions jointly called 29 of the 52 members of the assembly, and they had decided to consider a proposition that the senate should divide the powers. The anti-Addicks members received first choice, and chose Henry A. Ellison of Mount Pleasant for president of the senate. The Addicks faction then chose James V. McGowan of Wyoming for speaker of the house. The other appointments were then made, each faction choosing alternately.

Centerboard Cup Defender.

Boston, Jan. 2.—It is asserted that $25,000 has been subscribed for the centerboard boat which Stanley of Quincy wants to build. A number of owners of crack 25 footers together promised $10,000 and another gentleman, name withheld, pledged $10,000. James McCormick of Brookline offers $10,000, Joseph A. Doherty $5,000 and Messrs. Charles Cole, Andrew J. O'Brien and W. P. Backe $1,000 apiece. Other subscriptions are expected, and those working the matter up feel confident that sufficient money will soon be raised.

Blind Furnace Reduces Wages.

Youngstown, O., Jan. 2.—Notices of a reduction in wages that will affect about 4,000 men were posted yesterday at all of the blast furnaces in the Mahoning and Shenango valleys. What is to be the base price is $1.00 per day to hot iron filers and helpers, and the notices state that after Feb. 1 the base price will be $1.05. The reduction will place the wages of the furnace men on the same basis as in March, 1890. The employees refuse to say now whether they will accept the reduction.

Persons who suffer from indigestion.

cannot expect to live long, because they cannot eat the food required to nourish the body and the products of the undigested foods they do eat poison the blood. It is important to cure indigestion as soon as possible, and the best method of doing this is to use the preparation known as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and restores all the digestive organs to perfect health. Philbrick's pharmacy.

AUSTRALIA FEDERATED.

Lord Hopetoun Inaugurated at Sydney as First Governor General.

Sydney, Jan. 2.—The Earl of Hopetoun has been sworn in as the first governor general of the Federated Australian colonies amid scenes of pageantry such as never before had been attempted in the antipodes. Scores of thousands of people participated in the demonstration, and general rejoicing marked the occasion. The rejoicing of the commonwealth was intensified by a message which Queen Victoria sent through the colonial secretary, the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, and which was read by the Earl of Hopetoun, as follows:

"The queen commands me to express through you to the people of Australia the emperor's heartfelt interest in the inauguration of the commonwealth and her earnest wish that, under Divine Providence, it may insure increased prosperity and well being to her loyal and beloved subjects in Australia."

Lord Hopetoun briefly congratulated the members of the cabinet and then read the queen's message, which evoked prolonged cheering. This was followed by a second message, as follows:

"Her majesty's government read cordial greeting to the commonwealth of Australia. They welcome her to her place among the nations united under her majesty's sovereignty and confidently anticipate for the new federation a future of ever increasing prosperity and influence. They recognize in the long desired consummation of the hopes of patriotic Australians a further step in the direction of permanent unity of the British empire, and they are satisfied that the wider powers and responsibilities henceforth secured to Australia will give a fresh opportunity for a display of that generous loyalty and devotion to the throne of the empire which has characterized the action in the past of its several states."

Attempt to Kidnap Fails.

New York, Jan. 2.—Another case of attempted child stealing, apparently in the hope of extorting a large ransom, has occurred, this time in the rich manufacturing city of Bethlehem, Pa., one of the centers of the iron and steel industry. It is supposed that the father of a child, the boy they seized and kidnapped, thought the son of Robert P. Linderman, the millionaire president of the Bethlehem Iron company. In mistake they took the son of Mr. Linderman's gardener, and when their error was discovered the lad was released with the cool remark that he was "not the boy we wanted." He regained his home after midnight and is now seriously ill as the result of his adventure. Only a fluke apparently prevented in Bethlehem the repetition of the Cuddey kidnapping, which has aroused the city of Omaha to a level of indignation that threatens to break in storm over the heads of the entire city government.

Boston Bicycle Race.

Boston, Jan. 2.—In a hurricane finish Boston's Valhalla again finished first in another day, the second in the six day bicycle race at Park Square Garden. Fischer's closing sprint was such a surprise that he caught the other riders napping and came very near finishing in first place. He had been plodding along behind the bunch, when at the pistol report for the last mile, he pedaled out into a good lead, making the others work hard to overtake him. The day was a quiet one, with but few spectators. The favored achievement of Gougelet, the steady Frenchman, was the cause of much regret. The men are all in fair shape and riding well. Ryser, Auerbacher and Fredericks were the others who quit.

White House Reception.

Washington, Jan. 2.—In the long line of New Year's receptions at the White House which each year inaugurates the social season at the national capital, perhaps was more brilliant than the one which ushered in the twentieth century and perhaps no feature of it was so universally gratifying to the distinguished throng which came to extend the greetings of the New Year to the chief executive of the republic as the fact that the mistress of the White House was able to participate and with the president receive the felicitations and well wishes of all.

A State Board of Pharmacy.

Albany, Jan. 2.—The law creating the state board of pharmacy went into effect yesterday, and all druggists of the state come under its jurisdiction. The state board's control is substituted for the control of local boards. It has power to issue licenses to druggists and to enforce regulations. It can make and enforce rules for the practice of pharmacy, the sale of poisons, the character and standard of drugs and medicines dispensed to the state and the number of hours drug clerks shall work in cities of 1,000,000 inhabitants or more.

Pope to Write a Poem.

Paris, Jan. 2.—It is learned from a trustworthy source that the report is not true that Pope Leo has written a long poem in Latin celebrating the advent of the new century. He merely remarked to some attendants that he intended welcoming 1901 with a Latin hymn, but as yet he has not written a single line. It is possible, however, that at the last moment he may pen an ode or a few verses, but in any case the poem will contain but a few lines.

The Bellevue Investigation.

New York, Jan. 2.—Important developments in the Bellevue scandal are expected this afternoon, when the medical board holds its regular monthly meeting, and the trustees of the Mills Training School for Nurses will hold a special meeting to consider the case of the pupil nurses recently suspended by Commissioner of Charities John W. Keller. Members of both boards refuse in any way to foreshadow the action that will be taken.

Lost on Mount Washington.

Berlin, N. H., Jan. 2.—A searching party has left here for Mount Washington in an endeavor to find William H. Bodwell, correspondent of the New York Herald, who was lost on the mountain Monday while attempting to make the ascent with two other men. Bodwell, with Chester Stiles of Cambridge and Ray Evans of Gorham, went up the mountain on foot for the purpose of taking views.

Killed by a Turk.

Fatontion, Ga., Jan. 2.—Will Turk, a boy of 17, shot and killed Kimball Aiken near here. Thomas Turk, a prosperous country merchant, was engaged in a fight with Aiken, also a prosperous merchant, when he called on his young son Will to shoot Aiken. The boy did not hesitate, but fired at once upon his father's antagonist, who fell dead.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 3, 1901.

Pat Crowe will look well in a cage.

The ideal newspaper is one that isn't marked "ideal."

France will sell the Panama canal for $100,000,000. It is a little high with no water in it.

That Boston clergyman is a little too "High Churchish." He at least ought to add a little decency to the criticism of another denomination.

Gratitude and thanks today for Frank West Rollins and the heartiest of greeting to Chester Jordan. One has been an honor to the state and the other is sure to be.

"The first ballot or nothing," say the Burnham people. As there is no danger, whatever, of Burnham on the first ballot or any other ballot, the Burnham men will have to put up with nothing.

The census return showed only eleven donkeys in New Hampshire, but the senatorial canvasses that are appearing in the various papers of the Granite state make a much more imposing exhibit in this class.—Haverhill Gazette.

The desperate plight of the Burnham crowd is shown by the lengths they go to in order to try to create sympathy for their candidate. But these political tricks will not work. The people can see through such schemes and will not fall into any traps. The Burnham management realizes that a big bluff must be made in order to hold their forces in line. Will the bluff work? There is every indication that they will not.—Nashua Telegraph.

It is hardly surprising to note that the very first of the news from Concord gave emphasis to the strength of Senator Chandler. Nor was it surprising to read that every part of the state had been represented by Mr. Chandler's friends, who had their coats off and were working in his behalf. His opponents seem to have been paralyzed at the start and if they really had any idea of winning, must have been very much discouraged.

It is not a very agreeable thing to say, but there is a great deal of fact in what the Portland Advertiser has to say about the Stain and Cromwell cases. In the statement that it is complete justice could be done, Charles F. Stain would take his father's place. The gates of Thomaston yawn for this self-confessed perjurer and swearer away of the liberty of two men. Under a capital punishment law he would have sent them to the gallows. Such a worthless wretch deserves no consideration. His unnatural crime is abhorred of all men.

The Newburyport News, in speaking of the smash of the populist party, concludes in the following paragraph: "Now, while we are republican in our sympathies and allegiance, we do not hesitate to say that we believe the democratic party will live to see the populist, the people's, the prohibition and all other such political organizations buried, and still stand to their feet, the right of way with their great party, the party that is in power today. And that is well. It is one of the greatest safeguards of this great republic that there are here two great political parties so nearly matched in numbers and power. No good republican would wish it different."

IT GIRDLES THE GLOBE.

The fame of Buckle's Arnica Salve, as the best in the world, extends round the earth. It is the one perfect healer of Cuts, Corns, Burns, Bruises, Sores, Scalds, Boils, Ulcers, Folds, Aches, Pains and all Skin Eruptions. Only 60 cents per bottle. 25¢ a box at Globe Grocery Co.

A MILD PROTEST.

Anxious to Observe, but Reverted to Unreasonable Expectations.

The Star reporter happened to be in the florist's shop when the sentimental girl made her appearance. She is plump, and she seems to take an inordinate pride in the delicacy of her sensibilities. She didn't know exactly what she wanted.

"The chrysanthemum is very nice and large today, miss," remarked the young man who is learning the business.

"No," she said. "I don't care for chrysanthemums. They are so commonplace and ostentatious. They seem to be flaunting their charms in your face so persistently that they lose that suggestion of gentle refinement which to me is one of the sweetest attributes of a flower."

"Mebbe you'd like some nice fresh orchids," said the young man. He had once worked in a dry goods store and was bent on conveying the impression that it was no trouble to show goods. "We have some very pretty designs in orchids."

"Orchids! They are too common. There are too much for orchids, excepting for a little while. A momentary glimpse is fascinating, but there is nothing sympathetic about them."

"We have a lovely article in pinks."

"Ah, no. The perfume is oppressive. They remind me, with their elaborately formed petals, of nothing save the vanity of life."

"How would you like some roses? We make a specialty of roses, and they're on the bargain counter for this week only."

"I don't care for roses either. While pinks suggest pride, roses are to me symbolical of a disdainful hauteur that is no less unworthy."

"If you want something retiring and quiet—neat, but not gaudy, so to speak—let me show you our line of violets. Now, there is something fine in the way of a violet."

"What memories those flowers revive!" she sighed. "They take me back to other days. How touched I was by the fragrance of some violets that were given to me by—a very dear friend. I cherished the little blossoms. But alas, I found that they faded."

"Well, miss," the young man rejoined in the tone of one whose patience has been sorely tried, "flowers are flowers. We can guarantee that you're getting as good as there merely an expression which showed that ordinary means had failed and she must try finesse. Her husband, who was sitting on the step, looked over the top of his paper as she passed him to go to the front gate.

"I'm going after that loaf of bread you spoke of in a few minutes now," he said apologetically.

"I'm not going to make any more requests," she answered. But he did not hear her. His face was again buried in his newspaper.

Presently she came rushing up the walk and exclaimed:

"One of the neighbors saw a patrol wagon go up the street at a gallop and turn the corner toward the grocery. There must have been a fight or something."

Without a word he grabbed his hat in an instant and was going down the street at a rate which made two baby carriages turn over for fear of a collision. As his wife gazed after him she saw him going around the corner so fast that the centrifugal force threw him over on one side.

In five or ten minutes he came back. He handed her a bundle and reached for his paper, saying:

"Here's that bread. As long as I was so near the grocery I thought I would get it and stop your fretting about it. But I didn't see any disturbance."

"Are you talking about the patrol wagon and the crowd?" she inquired innocently.

"Of course I am."

"Why, that all happened day before yesterday. But I'm ever so glad you got the bread, dear."—Exchange.

Making Artificial Singing Birds.

It appears to us—and the reader will no doubt view the matter in the same light—that the most difficult task imaginable would be that of constructing a perfect artificial bird—one that would, by its appearance, deceive any one, but an expert ornithologist. As difficult as such a task must have been, the magician, Houdini, not only manufactured one that was perfect as far as looks were concerned, but which was also a fine singer. This wonder of mechanical ingenuity was made in the form of a nightingale and is said to have imitated that bird's song to perfection.

Houdini also imparted motion to his wonderful automatic creation. After it was coupled with the sound produced, flapped its wings and leaped from branch to branch on the shrub which formed its perch and made all of its motion as true to life as a living bird of the same species would have done.

This wonder was made in 1846, on the order of a wealthy merchant of St. Petersburg. Houdini's fame was worldwide at about that time on account of the prominence he had attained by constructing an artificial boy which could write, draw maps, talk, etc. This last mentioned automaton was made in 1844. One day while the "boy" was attempting to draw the picture of a crown for the Comte de Paris he broke his pencil and instantly looked up at those around him as naturally as any living boy would have done.—St. Louis Republic.

An Eye to Fitness.

"Hurry, hurry, my dear; the house is on fire! Quick! this way to the fire escape!"

"To the fire escape! Oh, dear, what a nuisance!"

"A nuisance?"

"Yes. This will make the fourth time today that I have put on my bicycle chain and laced up those horrid boots! There, there, don't hurry me!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Such as He Was.

"I hear the new missionary is a greater and a better man than his predecessor," remarked the first cannibal.

"Unless he be a better man," rejoined the second cannibal earnestly. "I should not wish that he were greater. There should be quite enough of the other one."—District Tribune.

BACON'S CHAMPION DIES

Ignatius Donnelly Expires Suddenly in Minneapolis.

OF GREAT AND VARIED TALENTS.

Member of Congress. Candidate For Vice President. Author and Man of Affairs—Made Many Believe Shakespeare Was a Fakir.

Minneapolis, Jan. 2.—Ignatius Donnelly is dead.

Ignatius Donnelly was born in Philadelphia in 1831. He graduated at the Central High school. He was a brother of the gifted poetess Eleanor C. Donnelly, who is still a resident of Philadelphia. He was the man who caused a great deal of opposition by reason of his advocacy of the theory that Sir Francis Bacon and not William Shakespeare was the author of the works bearing the latter's name. He left Philadelphia about 40 years ago, at that time being a member of the Philadelphia bar, and located in Minnesota, which state subsequently honored him by making him its lieutenant governor and afterward elected him as one of its representatives in congress from 1882 to 1893. It was as an author, however, rather than as a statesman, that Ignatius Donnelly gained fame. The first literary examination of his brain that attracted attention was "Atlantis, the Antediluvian World," which was published in New York in 1882 and in which he attempted to demonstrate that there once existed in the Atlantic ocean opposite the strait of Gibraltar a large island known to the ancients as Atlantis. In the following year he published "Ragnarok," in which he evolved the theory that the deposits of clay, gravel and the composed rocks characteristic of the drift were the result of contact between the earth and a comet.

Mr. Donnelly was the candidate for vice president of the middle of the real Populists in the last presidential election.

Pat Crowe's Brother Arrested.

Omaha, Jan. 2.—The first arrest here in the Cuddey kidnapping case has been made. J. J. Crowe, brother of Pat Crowe, whom the police believe to be a principal in the abduction, was taken into custody on charges of kidnapping and was brought to this city. The warrant charges Crowe with the abduction of Edward Cuddey on Dec. 18. Crowe consented to accompany the officers across the river without the formality of requisition papers. A posse of detectives with search warrants and complaints charging abduction ransacked the premises adjacent to J. J. Crowe's saloon in the hope of discovering Pat Crowe in the place of concealment. A diligent search disclosed no trace of Pat Crowe, but the officers came upon the brother who had a rear room. They hastily awakened him and took away two huge bulging pistols which he carried in his pockets. The man was first taken to the Council Bluffs station, and then he was conducted across the river.

Miss Hanna's Party.

Cleveland, Jan. 2.—The coming out party of Miss Ruth Hanna, the youngest daughter of Senator Hanna, last night was a pronounced social success. The reception was held in the Chamber of Commerce, which was crowded for the occasion because of the distance of the Hanna home from the center of the city. The guests included all the leading society persons of Cleveland, 1,500 invitations having been issued. The affair, which the party took place was decorated in a most artistic way with evergreens, holly, and red satin ribbons. The debutante received in a lower of palms at one side of the hall. She was attended by her father, her mother, her sister, Miss Mabel Hanna, and her grandmother, Mrs. D. P. Rhodes.

York to Head Police.

New York, Jan. 2.—The Herald says that it was announced on official authority yesterday that Howard J. York, president of the present police board, would be at the head of the department under the proposed reorganization. President York is known to be opposed to vice in its various phases. York will have the appointment of the single-headed commission, though of course Mayor Van Wyck will attach his signature to the papers.

Shot His Playmate.

New York, Jan. 2.—Peter Martensen, a 10-year-old boy, accidentally shot and killed Joseph Mithelson, also 10 years old, at the Martensen home in Fort Sologne, L. I. The boys were playing with an old revolver in which a cartridge had been left. The Martensen boy was holding one hand over the barrel of the weapon when it exploded. The ball passed through the boy's hand and then through the body of his companion, penetrating the left lung.

Woolen Makers Fall.

Philadelphia, Jan. 2.—Samuel Riddle's Sons, woolen manufacturers, with mills in Glen Riddle, Pa., have presented a petition in voluntary bankruptcy. The assets are said to be $291,242 and the liabilities $301,000. The chief cause of the failure is the insolvency of working capital and lack of means to equip properly old-fashioned mills with machinery equal to modern requirements.

Passenger Train Wrecked.

Wayne, W. Va., Jan. 2.—West bound passenger No. 3 on the Norfolk and Western railway, en route to Columbus, O., was wrecked here today. Half a dozen persons were injured.

EASING HIS CONSCIENCE.

She Wasn't the First Girl He Had Kissed, but She Was the Last.

It was shortly after the honeymoon and he had grown a trifle weary of a senseless abundance of sweetmeats as men will sometimes. He was tired when he got home, but he kissed her affectionately. Even a tired man can hold up his end in a kiss, you know, provided it is not too long drawn out or too frequently repeated. So the kiss was all right.

Then she kissed him, and that was all right too. She had been brought up very strictly and had been taught that all debts should be paid with the utmost promptness, so that it was only natural that she should return his kiss at once to avoid remaining in debt to him.

A little later she kissed him again and that was different. Before and during the honeymoon it would have been all right, but there had come to be a degree of monotony about discontinue wifely kisses now or experienced before marriage. Consequently he was desperate when he put the fifth kiss and she put her arms around his neck and said:

"The first woman you ever kissed."

"I had answered that question six or seven hundred times before, so there was no particular novelty about it, but he felt now that it was at all times to give his conscience a little consideration. Any one of his previous answers would have ruined George Washington's famous cherry tree reputation, and he felt that he could not afford to lie more than six or seven hundred times about his fifth marriage like that. Therefore he replied coldly:

"Not on your life!"

"George!" she cried, breaking away from him. "Do you dare stand there and tell me?"

"Now, don't get excited," he interposed. "I might as well square this thing with my conscience now, and besides you have no kick coming. You're the only one out of the 432 that ever got such a breach of promise elopement that I was afraid to try to kiss me on the cheek, and you're playing in pretence and lack at that."

Then he checked his hat on one side and started for the door with the air of a man who feels that he has won a great victory, but nevertheless thinks it wise to go to the club for the evening.

"And, by the way," he said as he paused in the doorway, "that question is a foolish one anyway, and you ought to break your self of the habit of asking it. What you are a lot more interested in when I come home at night is this: 'Are you the last woman I ever kissed?' You young married women all make the mistake of concerning yourselves with the wrong side of the ceremony."

He shut the door gently, feeling that he had impressed a valuable lesson on her.—Chicago Post.

Deer Hunting.

A Forest and Stream correspondent writes as follows about his method of deer hunting:

"I am interested in a fine bit of deer country in the Adirondacks, and we have gone to our lake in the season were sure of good sport. Of course you go to it in a scientific way, and with the best appliances. Our boats are tight and stiff, our guides are men of experience and our dogs are trained to drive the game to water. We start the dogs out in the morning and then sit around in comfort and wait until the music comes our way, then jump into a boat with a guide and watch for the deer to come to the lake. Soon he dashes in and starts to swim across the water as fast as the pair of ours can drive the boat, and I have got to see the deer that can swim as fast as one of those guides can row. The excitement of such a chase is intense, and only big game hunters enjoy such sport. Overtaking the swimming buck, the guide drops his oars and with a long forked sapling and a bit of rope deftly slips a noose around the head, and then the good old ten gauge gun with a charge of buckshot makes the animal a victim sure. It is great sport, and a cool headed man is sure of his game. Why, my boy, a chip of the old block and only 12 years old, killed his deer the first time he was out. Quite a number of deer have been shot on our preserve by boys of the party."

Soothing His Conscience.

He had not been a store clerk very long, and he was quite unused to the ways of the world. His employer pointed out a lot of goods and said:

"As soon as you get time mark these 'selling at cost' and let them go at 25 apiece."

"But—aren't you mistaken?"

"Mistaken about what?"

"Charging 81 apiece for them. You say 'selling at cost,' and they didn't cost but 70 cents."

"Young man, did I say I was going to sell them for what I paid for them?"

"No, sir, you said 'sell at cost.' And that's just what he came out in the bill—'sell at cost.' Major, old boss, you stay at home after this when I go after moonshiners."

Later, when Smith had made a number of successful raids on a smaller boss, one of the moonshiners told him that the old man who met him when he made his first trip on Major had noticed the unusual size of the horse's tracks. After that, although Smith might do all his traveling at nighttime, the natives the following morning would see Major's tracks in the road and would know that Bill Smith was in the neighborhood. The alarm would go forth immediately all through the district, and Smith's raids were always anticipated.

Another deputy United States marshal who was well known throughout his district was the late Sam Skidder. Skidder was not a politician; it was really the deputy's name. He was a full-blooded Indian on the staff of the United States territory in the upper district of Indian Territory. Out at Talpa and Muskogee they never say "Indian Territory," but simply "the Nation," short for "the Indian Nation." Residents on the border living in southwest Missouri and southern Kansas, before Oklahoma was created, also referred to the territory as "down in the Nation."

Sam Skidder didn't hunt moonshiners particularly, but he was sudden death

There were seven lodgers at the police station on Wednesday night.

Many a man had a pleasant run of it last Wednesday evening, as a result of the high wind.

Three moonlight nights are lovely, and you have an excuse for not taking your best girl out to stargaze.

The matinee at Music hall this week are being attended by an unusually large number of Kittery and York people.

Mrs. Emma March of Court street to celebrate her 75th birthday. Mrs. March is in excellent health and bid fair to live out the 100 years.

The lumbermen say that they have not had such a hard season along the coast for years as they are having this year. Back in the country there is but little snow.

Mary Callaghan, who has been confined at the police station for several days and who has been sick since arrest, was taken to the Cottage hospital this morning in a hack.

The engagement is announced of Mr. Richard D. McDonough, a well known young newspaper man of this city, and Miss Marion Andrews Phillips, daughter of Mrs. Hattie Wentworth of Kittery, the marriage to take place in the near future.

An article to prevent windows, show cases and eye glasses from frosting up has been put on the market. Those who are obliged to wear glasses will welcome the article, if they can, on a cold day go from the cold air into a heated room without becoming blindfolded.

New employees' passes are being issued to the Boston and Maine railroad men in this city. Heretofore a simple pass has been issued without limitations as to the number of times it was used. The new ones are punch passes and the conductor checks each date as the ticket is used.

The sun will continue to rise at 7:16 until the eleventh of the month, when the days begin to lengthen in the morning and there will be an increase of one minute a day in the evening until the twentieth, when there is a jump to a two minute increase for that day. There will be an increase of fifty-two minutes at the end of the month.

The city is constantly enveloped in dust clouds, and there are those who are about ready to wish the street sprinklers would come out and deluge the streets, preferring ice to dust. The circling dust clouds whirl through the streets, whisking hats from the heads of the unwary and making venturesome wheelmen look like a spectral sloop in a fog.

Constitution lodge, K. of P., of Kittery, at its regular meeting elected these officers: Walter Jackson C. C., Bertrand Moore V. C., Joseph E. Hussey, prelate, Samuel Caswell M. W., Fred W. Cross K. of R. and S. Charles R. Wapatt M. of P., Mark W. Paul M. of E., Oscar Clark M. of A., D. O. Seaward I. G., D. E. Barker O. G., Horace Mitchell trustee, Eugene Stinson representative for two years, A. H. Frost alternate.

The McKinley law is here. It is just the sanest, purest little law for the most innumerable, made of narrow gold ribbon all stuff with soft loops and twenty proud, upstanding ends. It knows it on the winning side, and it's brilliant in every thread. It is one of the prettiest hair ornaments for the season, and it has been brought out this season, and it is christened "McKinley" at once as soon as it saw the light of day.

Hon. Edward C. Moody at York, who is now at Augusta to witness the inauguration of Governor-elect Hill, attended the inauguration of Governor Sydney Perkins in 1871, and has witnessed the installation of every governor of Maine since that date, twelve in all. Gov. Hill will be the thirteenth. Mr. Moody was accompanied on the trip by Representative elect Staples of York, and by Dr. Hawkes and another citizen of York, who went to Augusta on business in the interest of the town.

Two men who went to the navy yard a few days ago, looking for work, arrived at Alfred jail yesterday and gave themselves up for sixty days. They told of being the yard and said the work was too hard for them. Such men are not making for hard work and all. After they get shelter, food and clothing, and medical attendance when they are sick. The retiring jailer, R. A. Anderson, is courteous and sympathetic, and having a man has gone out from the place better fitted to meet the world as the result of his hardships than he would have been the day before.

DETAINED AT PORTLAND

Lillian Lydston and a Man Fifty Years Old.

He Paid Him Money on the Train from Kittery this Forenoon.

Now Held at the Police Station for Further Directions.

Lillian Lydston, the fourteen year old Kittery girl who distinguished herself by stealing over $500 from Mr. and Mrs. James Richardson of that town last week, was taken into custody at Portland, Me., this noon, in company with a man about fifty years of age who gave the name of J. N. Nickerson of Biddeford.

It is alleged the girl paid him over about $200 on the train that arrived in Portland at noon. Mr. Richardson was at once notified of the arrest and the Portland police asked to be instructed about the matter.

The girl left Kittery this morning and was supposed to be going on a visit to Biddeford. Just what she did after she left the Kittery passenger station was not told in full in the message to Mr. Richardson. He at once came to the city and the police gave him what information they had.

The brakeman on the train happened to know of the money being stolen from Kittery and knew the girl, or was told who she was, and decided to watch her. The brakeman saw her turn over quite a sum. On the arrival of the train in Portland he told the Portland officers, and they arrested the girl and the man with her.

The girl stole about $200 the first of last week. Later, as told in the Herald, $200 of this amount was found in a leather bag at Mrs. Richardson's boarding house, where the girl had been given a good home.

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION.

Man Thought to be a Dover Burglar Taken into Custody Here.

The police yesterday were notified of a burglary in the tailoring establishment of William Beatty in Dover on Tuesday night, when the entire contents of the place were cleaned out and nearly $200 worth of goods missing.

The officers kept their eyes open and shortly before 7 o'clock Officers Shumway and Murphy arrested a man at the depot who had some stuff with him that answered to the description of some of the goods taken in Dover.

The man was taken to the police station and held for the arrival of the Dover officers. The man arrested gave his name as Lewis Marlette, a Frenchman.

The Dover break was an unusual one. Among the goods stolen are five ladies tailor made jackets, five suits of men's clothes, six pairs of pants, one second hand vest, three overcoats, a tan colored driving case and one double action revolver. The burglars gained entrance by prying open the door in the center hall with a "jimmy," making access to the place easy.

The break was discovered Wednesday morning about 7 o'clock by Mr. Beatty who, upon reaching his store, found it open and practically empty, everything of any consequence having been taken by the thieves. He immediately reported the affair to Marshal Emery, who, with the entire police department, is using every effort to secure evidence for an arrest.

A Dover officer came here during the day and found that the man arrested was not the man wanted and he was released.

OBSEQUIES.

The funeral of J. William Johnson, the young man who died on Monday of pneumonia, was held at the home on Jefferson street at two o'clock this afternoon. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Henry F. Covey, pastor of St. John's church. Interment took place in the family lot in Harmony Grove cemetery. The funeral director was Mr. H. W. Nickerson.

CAME HOME ILL.

Candy S. H. Linsford John W. Kelley came down from Concord on the 6:30 o'clock train, Wednesday evening, the 24 inst., feeling quite ill. It was feared that he was suffering from the first symptoms of pneumonia. He went to his home on Middle street directly upon reaching the city, and was promptly attended by a physician.

THEY HATE MAINE NOW.

Stain and Cromwell Say So As They Cross Portsmouth Bridge Wednesday Afternoon.

Stain and Cromwell, the man who were released from the Maine state prison on Wednesday, passed through here that afternoon.

If of this day any moments were more happy than others, they were those when they saw the train was crossing the bridge entering Portsmouth and the state of Maine was left behind in the fading of the Kittery shore.

"There goes the last of Maine," said one of the two reporters that accompanied them. Both men looked out at the train rumbled onto the bridge, and there was no sorrow in the smiling, pale old faces.

"Thank God," said Stain fervently. "I never want to see Maine again."

"Neither do I," said Cromwell. "Are we in Massachusetts?"

"No," was the reply. "This is New Hampshire," they were told as they got into Portsmouth.

"Tell me the minute we get into Massachusetts," said Cromwell. "That is God's country—that is God's country. But I never want to hear of Maine again."

Agreeable impressions of Maine were borne on yesterday's trip, and not the least of them are memories of that pie that they ate in the Portland station at noon.

After 13 years in prison all these men wished to eat was pie, and they passed chowder, roast chicken, roast beef, all the vegetables of the season, and puddings. What they yearned for was good old New England custard pie. And they got it.

The funeral of Daniel Littlefield will be held at his home on Saturday.
